Lisa M. Casa is an associate in the Employment and Labor practice group at Forchelli Deegan Terrana LLP. Casa concentrates her practice in the areas of employment and labor law, sexual harassment and discrimination law, overtime and failure to pay wages law, union/management issues and litigation.

In 2019, New York employers are focused on ensuring that they are in compliance with New York State's newly enacted anti-sexual harassment laws that were passed in response to the #Metoo movement, Casa said.

"These new laws require all employers, regardless of size, to adopt and distribute an anti-sexual harassment policy to their employees on or before October 9, 2018," she explained.

"Additionally, all employers are required by law to provide their employees with annual interactive anti-harassment training by no later than October 9, 2019," Casa noted. "Employers with existing policies and training programs should review their materials to ensure compliance with the state's minimum standards."

Casa is a member of the Nassau County Bar

Association, the Nassau Women's Bar Association and serves as Treasurer (2017-2019) of Nassau County Women's Bar Foundation.

She has lectured on labor law topics and has been published in the Nassau Lawyer, Suffolk Lawyer and the New York Real Estate Journal.

Founded in 1976, Forchelli Deegan Terrana LLP is one of Long Island's most acclaimed and distinguished law firms. Headquartered in Uniondale, the firm is conveniently located for clients in Nassau and Suffolk counties, as well as those in New York City.

All of the firm's attorneys have a high level of expertise in specific areas, as well as in the general practice of law. The firm employs more than 60 attorneys who provide counsel to a broad range of clients, including national, regional and local businesses, major real estate developers and organizations, banks, insurance companies, municipalities, educational institutions, contractors, architects/engineers and individuals.
